MAJOR CRIMES AGAIN ATTRACT ATTENTION

BANDITS TAKE ELEVEN MAIL SACKS AT TOLEDO WHICH ARE BELIEVED TO HAVE CONTAINED CLOSE TO MILLION DOLLARS

Tourists At Florida Hotel Held up and Robbed Of Valuables by Two Men. One of the Victims Shot Dead When He Resisted Robbery. Tourists Were Playing Cards When Held Up

AUTOES FIGURED IN BOTH THE CRIMES

TOLEDO, Feb. 17—Eleven sacks of mail beleived to contain between $300,000 and $1,000,000 were taken from three postoffice employes here at 2 a. m. today by five automobile bandits.

The robbery occurred at the Toledo postoffice. The postmaster refused to place an estimate on the value of the loot but said it would probably amount to $1,000,000. The sacks contained registered mail. Postmaster Lathrop said it would take several days to determine the amount.

A mail laden truck had just arrived at the postoffice and two employes had stepped out to assist the driver of the truck to unload the sacks when an automobile drove into the driveway.

Four men alighted and covered the driver and the two clerks with guns forcing them to lie down in the driveway. They drew the sacks in their automobile. The driver of the bandit car remained in his seat and kept the engine going. One of the bandits yelled "let's go" and the car with the five men started at high speed.

The driveway in which the robbery occurred was well lighted and more than 15 employes were in the postoffice at work when it occurred. They did not know a robbery had been staged until one of the men came in and gave the alarm. It was reported that several of the sacks contained federal reserve bank notes.

A stolen automobile used by the bandits was found by the police. In the automobile was an extra pair of license tage believed to have been stolen from another car. The car was taken from a Toledo garage by four men who held the garage keeper up at the point of a gun. City, county and federal officials in automobiles were running down numerous clews but so far have found no trace of the bandits.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 17—Bandits held up a card game at the Lenox hotel here killing George Alexander Goodrich of Atlanta, an engineer, and Walter Burden, a wealthy retired business man of Tacho, New York, police were informed today. The two men refused to throw up their hands. Mrs. Burden, wife of one of the murdered men, and her daughter witnessed the shooting.

Two masked men entered the parlors of the hotel from the door leading to the yard. They poked revolvers into the faces of the men of the party and demanded that they give up their valuables.

At this both of the men jumped up and started fighting. Four shots were fired. The bandits escaped in an automobile. The women screamed. Guests rushed into the parlor where they found the two men on the floor and the women at the point of fainting.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 17—An automobile believed to be the one used by the bandits who shot and killed George Alexander Goodrich of Atlanta and Walter Burden of Tatchogue, Long Island in the Lennox Hotel here last night was found abandoned near the outskirts of the city by police operatives today. There was a set of cartridges and two empty shells in the car. It had been stolen from in front of a theatre earlier in the evening. Two suspects have been arrested but the police had not yet made an examination of the men. Their names have been withheld.

PROPHESIES NEW ISLAND WILL COME OF EARTH QUAKING

Feb. 17.—The world is in process of being made over climatically and geologically, as a result of recent tremendous seismic disturbances in the Artic seas and Northern Asia, Prof. Guillaume Bigourdan, president of the committee on longitude, declares. The eminent scientist made this statement:

"We are traversing a period of volcanic and earthquake disturbance similar to that occurring before the creation of man, which caused the disposition of the present continents, oceans and chains of mountains.

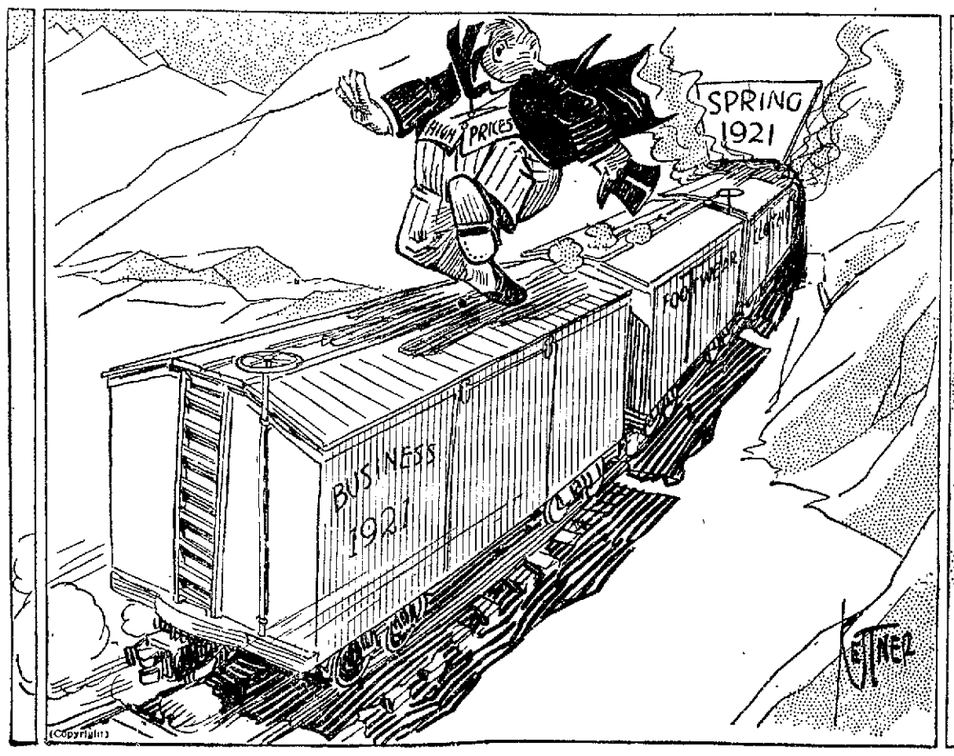

"While we need not anticipate any abrupt alterations in the earth's surface, there is undoubtedly a possibility that new groups of islands may appear in the Pacific ocean and that others may disappear. The cycle of seismic evolution is likely to extend for a period of hundreds of years, eventually completely transforming the geological and climatic conditions under which the earth is governed.

These disturbances may be expected in a zone of subterranean energy extending from the Mediterranean Sea to the Indian Ocean and eastern Asia, finally involving the entire Pacific coast line of the American continent, which will likely be particularly affected.

"However, resultant earthquakes and eruptions of long dormant volcanoes are unlikely to rival in severity those of 2,000 years ago."

CARUSO'S CONDITION IS DESCRIBED AS "UNSATISFACTORY" BY PHYSICIANS

NEW YORK, Feb. 17—Enrico Caruso's condition is unchanged it was announced today by his secretary. The last official bulletin issued by his physicians said the singer's condition "was unsatisfactory." Dr. Franci Murray remained at Caruso's bedside during the night. Dr. Stella left the apartment at 2:30 a. m. and he said that there were no marked developments since the relapse. The crisis in Caruso's illness from pleurisy and heart trouble is expected during the day, the physicians said.

There was no confirmation of the rumor that Caruso suffered another relapse early today. Enrico Caruso, Jr., his son, was expected to arrive here today from Culver, Ind. There was every prospect that he would win in the race with death to reach his father.

Dr. Stella in conversation said that high hopes for Caruso's recovery were still being entertained although the crisis was not yet passed. "Caruso's condition this morning is just as unsatisfactory as it was yesterday morning," Mr. Murray announced at 9:45 a. m. today.

BAND REHEARSAL TONIGHT WILL BE FINISHING TOUCH

Tuesday evening it was the privilege of the writer to sit in on the Legion Band rehearsal in preparation for its concert to be given next Tuesday evening and it is putting it very mildly to say that the Legion Band is most certainly destined to win the approval of every one who goes to the concert and earn the support of every loyal citizen of Clearfield.

We have always been interested in having a truly representative band for Clearfield and have watched every movement of the American Legion in its efforts to give Clearfield such a band. It is succeeding beyond the most sanguine expectations of those who were interested and believed the project could be carried through.

The equipment the band now has and much of which has never been used before is the best that money could buy. No little detail has been overlooked. The person who attends the concert will see a snappy bunch of men in khaki on an elevated platform whereon every one of the tricks of the drummer and the noise maker can be seen. The band will be of over 30 musicians and to give our readers some idea of what they can do in bringing a crashing overture to a climax we might mention that there are five drums and all the accompanying accoutrements. There is a new base drum bigger than any ever used in Clearfield, a snare drum, a field army drum, two tympanies. The cymbals are imported from Turkey and cost $75.

The music which they will play will not be "over our heads" but is right in line with that played by the greatest concert bands of the country. One wonders how this band has been able to make such progress until you see it in rehearsal. Two nights a week for two hours, the members work, yes work—and hard. When we arrived at the band hall they were in the middle of a descriptive selection, "The Night Alarm," the fire gongs were banging and the effect was all there, the puffing of the engine, the unreeling of the hose, the frantic calls for water and the bellowing of the fire chief. Prof. Thayer with his magic was drawing, coaxing and cajoling those instruments into giving up the most wierd and delightful harmony we ever heard. He was sans coat, vest and collar and only kept his suspenders over his shoulders because he had no cause he had no belt.

It is going to be the greatest band music we ever heard and we're going.

Third ward, scarlet fever, 6; measles, 1.

DAGUE HAS A BIG PROGRAM MAPPED OUT FOR FORESTRY

Harrisburg, Feb. 17. — District Forester Dague and his assistants on the Moshannon Forest, in Clearfield county, are making extensive preparations for forest fire protection and nursery work this Spring. The forest rangers have several hundred boxes and crates ready for shipments of seedlings to private planters of the young forest trees.

This Spring the entire area of the Clearfield nursery will be seeded with various species of forest evergreens. Because of the scarcity of tree seeds durings the last three years, only about one-fourth of the nursery is now producing trees. Seedlings of hardwood trees will be grown in several nurseries in other parts of the state. Forester Dague expects to sow this Spring seeds from the following species of forest trees:

Norway spruce, Scotch pine, European larch, Japanese larch, White spruce. Pitch pine, White pine, Jack pine, Hemlock, Western yellow pine, Short leafed pine, Japanese red pine, and Japanese black pine.

TWO OHIO FEMALE HIGH SCHOOL TEACHERS BRUTALLY BEATEN TO DEATH WITH FENSE RAIL. NO MOTIVE TOR CRIME

CLEVELAND, Feb. 17—Cleveland detectives and a posse of farmers were searching today for two men in connection with the slaying of Miss Louise Wolf, aged 38 and Miss Mable Foote, aged 24, school teachers. They were beaten to death with a fence rail. The bodies were found today by school hildren on Beam Road about 3 miles from Cleveland. Misses Wolf and Foote were teachers in the Prima Centre High chool and were last seen alive shortly before they left for eir homes at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Miss Gladys reen who resides a short distance from the scene of the illing sadi she saw two bare headed men walking along Ridge oad which intersects Beam Road. Robbery was not the motive for the crime as their jewelry was not touched.

HOWATT, PRESIDENT OF KANSAS MINERS SENTENCED TO JAIL

Pittsburg, Kans., Feb. 17.—Alexander Howatt, president of the Kansas Miners' Union, was found guilty of contempt of court and sentenced to jail by Judge Curran, of the Crawford county district court yesterday afternoon.

With Howatt were found guilty his five co-defendants in the contempt proceedings, all officers of the Kansas Union. They are: August Dorchy, vice president; Willard Titus, John Fleming, James McIllwrath and Earl Maxwell, executive board members.

All the defendants were sentenced to a year in jail and to pay costs.

Bonds for Howatt and his associates were fixed at $2,000 each; they were released upon their own recognizance until today to make bond.

The calling of a strike in two mines in violation of an injunction caused the contempt proceedings. The strike resulted from a controversy between the union and operator over the age of a young miner named Mishmash, because the question of his age affected his rate of pay.

PRETTY WEDDING AT HOLMES RESIDENCE

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Holmes today at high noon when Miss Francis E. Williams, of Clearfield, and Reginald B. Dennis, of Wilkes-Barre, were united in marriage by the Rev. C. C. Snavely.

The Holmes residence was beautifully decorated with pink and white roses and carnations and an elaborate wedding breakfast was partaken.

The bride is the accomplished daughter of Mrs. Rose Wiliams, of this city, and the groom one of the leading colored citizens of Wilkes-Barre. The happy couple departed on the Pennsy express for Wilkes-Barre, where they will make their home. Among the invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Holmes, W. B. Holmes, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Neal White, H. Brown, of Wilkes-Barre, Mrs. Florence Yellets, Mrs. Ira McClosky, Mrs. C. C. Snavely, Mrs. Minnie Logan, W. B. Russel, Ernest Terry, E. Richburg.

Miss Catherine Berry, of Morrisdale, who has been at McGirk's Sanitarium for a month, was removed to her home. It is hoped she will soon be around again.

J. W. Oxley is in New York city this week on business.

COWPEAS FIRST USED AS FOOD FOR HUMANS

Earliest Published Record in America Was in 1798.

Plant at Present Is Best Known and Extensively Grown Leguminous Crop in Southern States—Can Be Grown in North.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The cowpea is undoubtedly a native of Central Africa. A wild plant differing little from the cultivated cowpea occurs throughout much of that continent. Hybrids of this wild plant and the cultivated cowpea are readily obtained. The cultivated cowpea consists of three main groups—the asparagus bean, the catjang, and the cowpea each of which represents a group of varieties having much in common but connected through intermediate varieties. The cowpea is the most important of the three groups.

The large number and great diversity of cultivated varieties throughout Africa and over the southern half of

A Good Stand of Cowpeas.

Asia and the adjacent islands as well as the Mediterranean region of Europe indicate that the cowpea is of ancient cultivation for human food. It was early introduced in the Spanish settlements in the West Indies and was grown in North Carolina in 1714, probably coming from the West Indies. Its culture in Virginia was reported about 1775 and no doubt was quite general in the United States early in the Nineteenth century.

Without doubt, the cowpea is the Phaseolus mentioned by the old Roman writers. In Italy the Blackeye cowpea is still called by the same name as the kidney bean, namely, "fagiolo," which is the Italian equivalent of Phaseolus. In East Africa both the wild and cultivated cowpeas are called "kunde," while in India, where the catjang is more extensively cultivated, the name "lubia," with many others, is used. In America the cowpea was first known as "calivance" and later as "Indian pea," "southern pea," "southern field pea," and "cornfield pea." The first published record of the name cowpea was in 1798 and applied apparently to a single variety.

The cowpea at present is the best known and most extensively grown leguminous crop in the Southern states, but it can be grown profitably much farther north. Although it succeeds under a greater diversity of climatic, soil, and cultural conditions than most other legumes, the best results are obtained in forage, soil improvement, and seed production by a thorough understanding of the requirements and the best varieties of the crop.

ICE-HARVEST TIME AT HAND

Farmer Should Lay in Ample Supply for Cooling Milk and for Household Uses in Summer.

Farmers who have not already done so, should prepare to lay by a store of ice now for cooling milk and for household use next summer. In places where nature provides a sufficiently low temperature, the cost of harvesting and storing ice is low when compared with the saving effected. Ordinarily, it is safe to harvest 2 tons of ice for each cow in the herd. This will allow for melting and leave enough for family needs. Where cream only is sold, about one-third of that quantity of ice will be needed.

Two farmers' bulletins, No. 623, Ice Houses and the Use of Ice on the Farm, and No. 1078, Harvesting and Storing Ice on the Farm, may be had by applying to the Division of Publications, United States Department of Agriculture.

LATEST SCREEN PRODUCTIONS

(Reviewed by Charles Beahan)

"GODLESS MEN"—Goldwyn

"Godless Men," adapted from Ben Ames Williams' Saturday Evening Post tale, is a powerful drama of the sea which breathes of salt water and the restless stretches of the fair Pacific. The theme is the tragedy of known hatred, and while it is in nowise a second "Sea Wolf" it is thrilling entertainment. The action proceeds with such unerring force and surcness that it creates not only a picture of exceptional merit, but a tragedy so well motivated that it leaves me with that peculiar exaltation which the true magic masters have always been able to extract out of the very heart of pain. The gripping tale is excellently portrayed by a splendid assemble of characters, and has been ably directed by Reginald Barker.

"THE PLAYTHING OF BROADWAY"—Realart

We were more than usually interested in Justine Johnstone's second cinematic venture, inasmuch as we had seen much of the actual production being filmed at the Realart studios on Long Island. To us, Miss Johnstone is one of the most beautiful young women appearing on the screen. Not only that, she can act, and does in "The Plaything of Broadway," in which she appears as Lola, a notorious dancer. . . . A wealthy young doctor has aided the East Side poor by erecting for them a hospital known as "The Emergency House". He lays wagers with her friends that she can and will lure him from his noble work. She succeeds, but ultimately the wrong she has done dawns upon her and she seeks forgiveness in a novel way. Lavishly produced, magnificently mounted with Crauford Kent as leading man.

"THE FIRST BORN"—Robertson Cole

It is a pleasure to watch that genuine actor, Sessue Hayakawa, interpret, with unruffled deliberation and high intelligence the difficult role of Chan Wang, in "The First Born". And that is about all the pleasure one derives from the picture. It is a sombre tragedy throuout, entirely lacking the artistry and atmosphere in a previous Chinese photodrama, the wonderful "Broken Blossoms." However, "Sonny Boy" Warde as Chan Wang's son, is very effective, as is Helen Jerome Eddy. And we might add that American actors, when dressed as Chinese, are seldom effective. "The First Born" was enhanced many times by a beautiful prologue and atmospheric music, when it was presented at the Strand last week. If only our small-town exhibitors would realize the tremendous importance of the right sort of

MARY MILES MINTER IN PINERO STAGE HIT

The head of the local library reports a remarkable demand for the Pinero play "Sweet Lavender," since Manager Driggs's announcement that Mary Miles Minter would appear in a film version of it at his Driggs theatre for one day beginning February 17. "Sweet Lavender" is thought by many to be the greatest of the many Pinero successes. It has been prepared for the screen by Beulah Marie Dix, who has preserved all of the delicious humor of the original Paul Powell, who directed "Pollyanna" for Mary Pickford, also directed this piece. Lovers of the drama are planning to attend the performances of "Sweet Lavender," considered a perfect example of the best in stage offerings. It is a Realart picture.

"JUST OUT OF COLLEGE"—Goldwyn

Adapted from the pen of George Ade, "Just Out of College" with Jack Pickford in the leading role, provides fair entertainment. It is the typical "machine-made" movie story—formula No. 13—wherein the redoubtable young hero, aided by his extremely clever plan, proves his worth, wins a fortune, and of course wins the girl as the crafty business pirate, daughter of his business rival. Pickford is ably assisted by pretty Molly Malone, while George Herenandez presents an inimitable characteriza-

WHO WILL BEGIN?

All this "Let's Go," "All Together, Now," "Let's Get Busy" advice is good enough in its way, but the fact is that a great many of us are ready and anxious to "get busy" if only somebody will toot the factory whistle and tell us to report for work. And there are a lot of manufacturers who are getting nervous prostration over idle mills.

And all the "whoop 'er up" stuff the newspapers can print won't help much until the mills and factories, the mines and the railroads feel the stimulus of a mighty buying movement.

"Buy now," is the only advice that is worth anything at this moment, for no factory can run without orders, no mill can operate without a purchaser waiting for its product, no mines can be kept busy unless there are people waiting for their coal or iron, so railroads can run full time until freight is provided for them.

This "buy now" advice does not apply simply to the man in need of a suit of clothes, a pair of shoes or a hat; or to the woman who ought to go to markte for a new dress or coat. Nor yet is it conned to the householder with money and a desire for carpet or furniture.

"Buy now" applies to the congregation with a church to build. It applies to the city with a filter plant to erect, streets to be paved, paving to be repaired, grading to be done, sewers to be laid or any kind of public improvement planned. It applies to the county with bridges to build or roads to be improved. It applies to the school district with new schools to be built. It applies to the state with millions to expend on new highways, a capitol park to be improved and other public work outlined. It applies to everybody everywhere who can possibly make a purchase, large or small, or who can start any work, increase the purchasing power of the public, and so get the wheels of industry to humming as they ought to be humming at this moment.

And anybody who can "buy now"—which is only another way of saying anybody who can start any work now, who can give more employment to more men—is doing his duty as an American citizen, and anybody who is unduly holding back when he might be going ahead, is retarding progress and is hurting himself quite as much as anybody else.

Animal Prophets.

Few beliefs are older or more widespread than that animals, and especially wild animals, have foreknowledge of what the weather is to be, and something that amounts to such foreknowledge many of them doubtless do possess, but there is no reason, and only poor excuses, for assuming that there is a source of information accurate enough and of application remote enough to give any appreciable extension to the weather bureau's prognostications.

Gloried in His Toughness.

Dick came into the kitchen one morning, and it was evident from his general appearance he had been with a boy equally aggressive. His mother looked at him in horror as, with his cap pulled down over a blackened eye and his little fists clenched, he said: "Oh, I tell you, mamma, I'm a tough guy."

A Literary Find.

A new "bull" by the famous Sir Boyle Roche has been discovered in a manuscript letter dated 1705. Sir Boyle is quoted as saying: "Mr. Speaker, an honorable gentleman who sits behind me is persistently laughing in my face. I beg to move that before he laughs at me again he will be pleased to tell me what he is laughing at."—Boston Transcript.

Science Conquering Disease.

One curious point which is shown in insurance tables is that those organic diseases which are so frequent in middle life develop at a period from five to ten years later than they did fifty years ago. Medical science has, of course, done a lot for the race in the way of lengthening human life, but sanitary science has done more. Zymotic or infectious diseases are being slowly but steadily conquered by improved water supply, drainage and housing.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS

CURWENSVILLE

We have been asked a number of times lately as to the age of "Dad" Hoover. On searching our record of old-timers of Curwensville, we find that Gary Bishop (named after Rev. Bishop, an itinerant Presbyterian preacher, who came into this section once in a while in the early days) Hoover, was the fourth son of Jacob and Mollie (Reynolds) Hoover, and was born at the Hoover homestead near Centre church, on September 7, 1830 He is residing in the house on the corner of Thompson and George streets which he erected in 1880. He was thrice married, his first wife was Elizabeth Glass, of York county, whom he married in 1854, she departing this life in 1863, leaving no issue His second union was with Anna McMahon, in 1864, to whom two daughters and one son was born, the girls both deceased, the son going away from home some 30 odd years ago and has never been heard from since She died September 20, 1896 His third wife was Anna McKinney and they were married in 1898, and after a few years of wedded bliss, the wife left the Hoover home and is now a trained nurse.

"Dad" became an Odd Fellow in 1880; and a member of the Rescue Hose and Ladder Company in 1879. Although confined to his home he is in tolerable good health and bids fair to round out the 100 mark.

(Now you have the data asked for, cut it out and paste in a scrap book and you will always have it near you for reference.)

There is scarcely a day passes but what we have it drummed into our ears by some people who are continually complaining of "hard times" No matter how well then efforts are rewarded in their several employments, they still cry out "hard times" For example: A few days ago we heard a farmer, who also trades in other branches, complain about times being hard, money scarce, etc. After awhile we asked him how his crops panned out for the year 1920. He replied, very good, have not done so well for years. He also said, when asked point blank, that he had gotten his lumber logs, mine props and railroad ties to market, and had sold them for a good price Still he complained, although he had no reason at all. This is a fair example of a class of men who are either naturally fond of growling or complaining of money scarcity, when nobody owes them any and are habitually too indolent to work very long at a time in order to have somebdy over them. In this end of Clearfield county very few have any reason to complain. Everything that was for sale was readily disposed of and at a high price. The crops were excellent and fruit of all kinds abundant Today success is crowning the efforts of the people all over this and adjoining counties; we as a nation were never a more prosperous people. There is not a mechanic in this neighborhood that during the past year has not had at his command all of the work that he could do, and at fair wages; there was not a manufacturing plant that was idle from lack of material or a good market for its product. The laboring man found abundant work for his willing hands, and at better wages than he ever received before. All developments of industry, lumbering, mining, agriculture, etc, all protected by tax and tariff as to make them truly successful. Go where you would you found railroads being built (of which today we have thousands of miles more than all the world.) New villages, towns and cities sprang up throughout the country; school houses were erected at every cross road; houses of worship built within a reasonable distance of each other. Thus the work of industry, education and Christianity, the motive power of the world, went on rapidly in 1920, making more dear the country which is honored and respected throughout the world as "The land of the free and the home of the brave."

Then why all this success? Why was labor so amply repaid? Why were our manufacturies so active and successful? Why do peace and plenty crown every household? Why are we all in the enjoyment of liberty and prosperity? Finally, why does the brightest sun that ever dawned on the American people, shine with renewed lustre on us today? These are truths, positive truths. Now let us carefully consider these truths, not listening to croakers, sore-headed misfits or curb stone politicians, and see to whom credit is due for our prosperity One subject, which in its broad extent, controls our whole interest, is tax and tariff. Now who so adjusts taxes and tariff, as to make our manufactories so successful, and at the same time pay our working men the best of wages in any country for their labor, and protecting in its extent our agricultural and other interests? We might argue this question, at length, but it is unnecessary, as the prosperity of the country, which we see all around us, is the best argument. It is also true, that for the past several months general business has been slow, but from now on will soon be in its old stride and the whirl of industry will be even greater than that of 1920. Large manufacturing plants all over this broad land which had reduced their product output more than one-half, are again starting up in full force. Good times are looming up, of which every man will have a part and parcel. Therefore let us be cheerful and joyful, and not go around wearing a careful countenance and crying "hard times"

DUBOIS COURIER SCORES BUM SPORTS WHO HISSED HENNY

The following from the columns of the DuBois Courier will be read with interest by all good sportsmen, particularly those who saw the battle at DuBois wherein Henderson put up a game fight against great odds. The Courier is to be commended for its stand for cleaner sportsmanship.

"Hundreds of people who were at the fight on Tuesday night were heartily ashamed of the people who took it upon themselves to hiss and hoot young Henderson, the Clearfield mitt man. Ring experts declare that Henderson did nothing contrary to the rules and deserved better treatment from the crowd than he received. Henderson came over here to meet young Roberts, a man under his own weight, and it was not his fault that the substitute was a smaller man He was in there to fight and did so.

Had Henderson committed a deliberate foul, he should be censured, but his conduct on Tuesday night did not deserve the treatment accorded him. He felt the treatment very keenly, and the entire Clearfield delegation were justly incensed"

Pearls and Rubies.

"Pearl" is thought by some writers to come from the Latin "pirula," meaning "a little pear," because so many fine pearls were pear-shaped. "Ruby" is thought to have been so-called from "ruber," the Latin for "red," but it may be that the word "ruber," meaning red, was derived from the name of the ruby

The FRANKLIN

Why it Continues to Find An Active Market

Franklin sales during December were the biggest for that month in the history of the company. In January, demand ran 15% ahead of production. Sales are continuing at this rate for three good reasons:

Second—The Franklin, being air-cooled, is just as dependable, just as trouble-free, just as much a pleasure to own in winter as in summer.

Third—The Franklin's price is right.

What we mean by "results above the average" will be shown any time by demonstration. Here is what we mean by "a cost considerably below the average"

Community Mothering by Cleaning Specialists

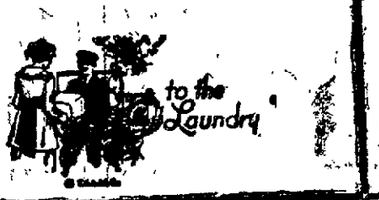

Some of our good friends have been kind enough to refer to our modern laundry srevice as "Community Mothering."

And that is exactly what we are seeking to make it—for we have demonstrated that it is practical for mothers to gain relief from washday's trying labors at reasonable cost.

Our experts, with the aid of modern methods, in our big, sunlit laundry, are washnig and ironing for many mothers. They are mending and darning, too, returning the family bundle complete, ready to use or pack away, at a cost that's ever so reasonable.

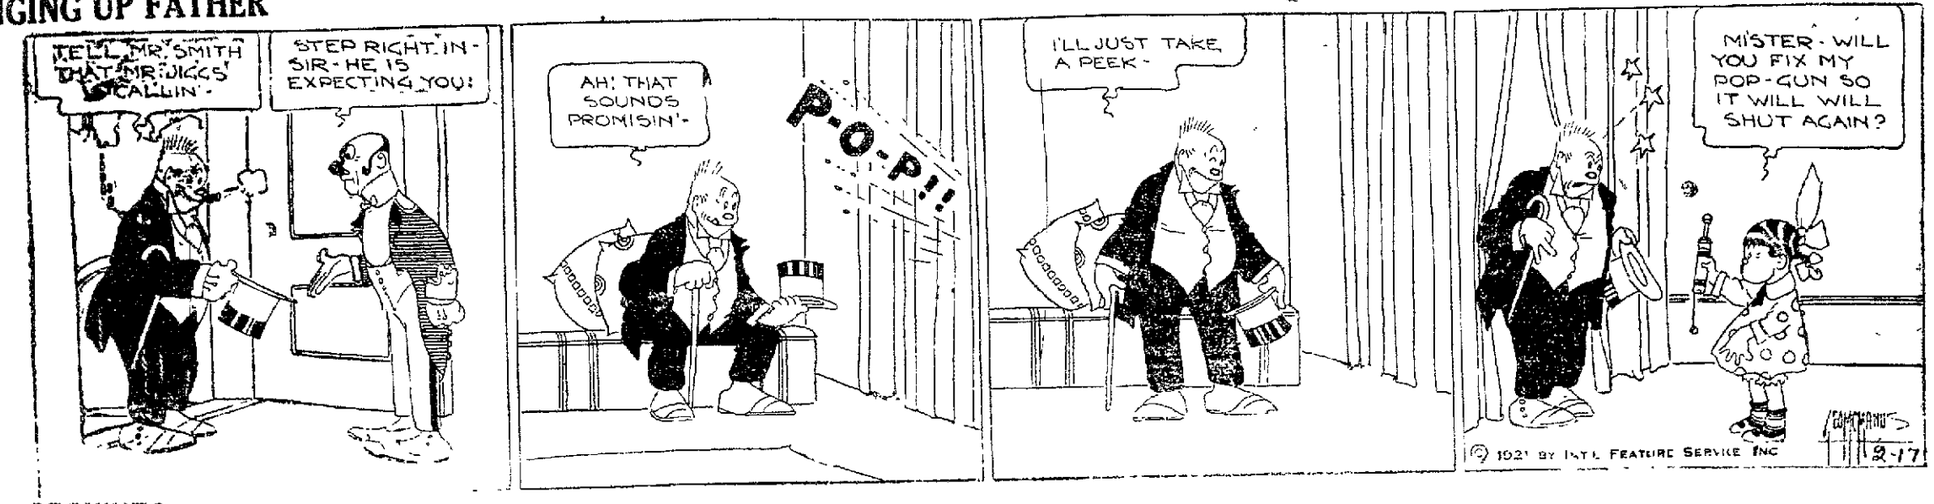

And it is a service of which the most critical approve—you will like it, we're quite sure. Why not phone for our driver today?

POULTRY BREEDING ON FARM

"Better Sires-Better Stock" Campaign Discloses Increased Interest in Fowls.

On many farms participating in the "Better Sires—Better Stock" movement more than one-half of the varieties of stock reported is feathered stock. This is true even on some of the larger farms. A Nebraska live stock owner who breeds Shorthorn cattle and Poland China and Duroc-Jersey swine reported the following varieties of poultry; Single-Comb Brown Leghorns, Single-Comb Buff Orpingtons, Toulouse geese, Pekin ducks and guineas.

Developments in the better-sires campaign show also that, compared with other live stock, poultry shows a slightly greater proportion of pure breeding and a very small number of scrubs and mongrels. Although results in poultry breeding come more quickly than with larger animals, this tendency shows the careful attention poultry breeding is receiving on farms.

Gossip for Tonight's Tea Table

Mrs. Haskell Kunes and son, Wayne, of Keewaydin, are visiting at the home of Mrs. I. Kunes, Turnpike avenue.

Miss Grace Stewart, of Oberlin, O., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Stewart, Pine street.

Mrs. William Reading and son, William, returned to their home in Narberth today after spending the past few weeks with Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Dufton, Market street.

Miss Brown and Miss Heckoff, of Osceola, shopped in our stores yesterday.

Mrs. Nettie J. Rook and daughter, Marian, are visiting friends in Indiana this week.

Miss Dora Lee Newman, of Philadelphia, field secretary of the American Red Cross, will spend the next few days in town.

A very pleasant surprise party was given Miss Alice Ogden at the home of her sister, Mrs. Frank Read, on Wednesday evening. Although the rain poured and the wind blew it did not keep the young folks from having a good time. Late in the evening delicious refreshments were served and the guests departed wishing Miss Ogden many more such happy birthdays.

VOLUME XV — THE CLEARFIELD PROGRESS, CLEARFIELD, PA., THURSDAY EVENING, FEBRUARY17, 1921 — NUMBER 168

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

BUILDING the weather out is fully as important as maintaining a fire in the furnace. In the old days when we scorched our faces and froze our backs at the open fireplace, we went shivering to bed and breathed icicles on the coverlid.

"It was common practice," says Mr. Frank Baackes, Vice Pres. American Steel and Wire Co., "to bank the foundations with manure boxes to keep the cellar from freezing and to put on storm windows and yet the cold whistled through every crack and crevice in the weather boards and around the door fr...

"The ...ons, because lumber was scarce and high, began to use plaster on their houses inside and out, but in this country, where we had no stone walls, we found that the plaster, through expansion and contraction, would break and scale off.

"But the introduction of triangular galvanized steel reinforcement and the improvement of outside plasters, has corrected this evil and a house now could be tumbled end over end and its plastered walls remain intact.

"The use of modern reinforced stucco is economical in the first instance, and is doubly so because the house never has to be painted, something which every home owner will appreciate."

VEXATION OF SPIRIT

"WHEN I was in business," said the retired merchant, "I never had time to read much, and I used to look forward to the glad day when I could revel in literature. I felt sure I'd be entirely happy. I used to jot down the titles of books I intended to read, and when I retired from business I had a list as long as the Russian battle line.

"And now that I can read all I want to, I don't get any enjoyment out of books. They bore me the worst way. I get sleepy as soon as I begin to read, and my wife comes and tells me my snoring is disturbing the neighbors."

"It's that way with everything we look forward to," observed the hotelkeeper, sadly. "Man always will be, but is never blest, as some half-baked poet remarked. Young Gooseworthy was in here last evening, bubbling over with happiness. There wasn't anybody around, so he took me into his confidence. He's going to marry Gwendolin Jimalong, next month, and he's perfectly satisfied that his married life will be one long stretch of sunshine. He seems to have the idea that he's going to do something original when he gets married, but the idea isn't new. Men have been getting married ever since Christopher discovered Columbus, Ohio, and every doggone man jack of them had the idea that everlasting bliss was going to be inaugurated on the wedding day.

"I listened to Gooseworthy for three hours, and hadn't the heart to say anything that would dampen his enthusiasm. His twittering recalled the long vanished days when I was getting ready to be married. I felt about it then just as he does now. I thought the parson opened the gates of paradise when he joined two loving hearts. My wife lived up to all the plans and specifications, and was and is one of the best women in the United States, but I hadn't been married three months before I had a sneaking conviction that the man who gets married is a chump.

"A good many optimists say that a married man doesn't need any more money than a single one, if he marries the right sort of woman, but they might as well go to the blackboard and demonstrate that two and two make two, instead of four. I fell for that cheerful theory when I was married. I was earning enough to keep myself comfortably, and never had any financial worries. I could have been buried for less money than it took to be married, and the expenses from that time forward were double what they used to be, although my wife was so economical she used to make waists and such things for herself out of my superannuated shirts.

"Oh, doggone it, there isn't any unadulterated happiness in matrimony. I wonder that young fellows like Gooseworthy don't look around them, and contemplate the dejected appearance of the majority of husbands. But even if they did, it wouldn't do them any good, I suppose, for they are full of pipe dreams, and they think the girls they are going to marry are different from all other girls, and that they will prove exceptions to the general rule.

"I had a wise old uncle in those halcyon days, and about a week before the wedding day, he backed me into a corner and handed me a dust-proof package of wisdom. He tried to lead me into taking a sensible view of the future. He talked about the cares and responsibilities that would be mine after the wedding, and wanted to know if I felt equal to them. He tried to show me that I wasn't going to marry an angel, but a human being like myself, with a human being's faults and frailties.

"I let him get that far, and then I told him that his gray hairs alone saved him from having his head remodeled, and said I never wanted him to darken my door, and he never did. I had to darken it myself, with walnut stain. But many a time afterward, I recalled his wise words and wept over his grave."

Well Off.

"What's happened now?"

"I was just thinking what a fool I was for trading off my Liberty bonds for oil stock."

Nut Waiter Wanted.

An old lady, after waiting in a confectionery store for about ten minutes, grew grossly impatient at the lack of service. Finally she rapped sharply on the counter.

CHINESE MAIDENS WILL SHOW NEW YORKERS HOW TO UNWIND COCOONS AND SPIN SILK FLOSS

EMPRESS OF RUSSIA THE "SILK SHIP"

China, the original home of sericulture, has sent a Silk Mission to attend the International Silk Exposition at New York. This is surely linking past and present for according to the native records of China, silk culture dates from a very remote period. The Lady of Si-ling who was Empress in 2640 B. C. did much to advance the industry, caring for silk-worms with her own hands. Tradition also credits her with having invented the loom for weaving the silken threads.

Great strides have been made through the ages in the matter of spinning or reeling the cocoons, in the standardization of raw silk and in weaving the floss, but the silk-worm lives and dies and spins his burial shroud—the precious cocoon—in the same old leisurely way he did 5,000 years ago.

However, new methods of preserving eggs and caring for the worms have been discovered. Today there are countless millions of silk-worm eggs kept in cold storage. When needed they are taken from storage, subjected to a uniform temperature of 70 degrees F. until hatched. Then ensues a busy time—the feeding time. Mulberry leaves, young, tender and finely chopped, are fed seven times a day for the first month, at the end of which the worm goes into the first of his five sleeps. Feedings are diminished between sleeps. At the end of the feedings and sleepings Mr. Worm spins a cocoon about himself.

At the proper stage the cocoons are collected and the pupa killed to prevent its further development into a moth which would burst the cocoon and ruin the silken filaments of which it is composed.

The cocoons are soaked and then unwound and reeled by deft fingered girls, the resultant product being raw silk floss which is exported in great quantities. Many precious cargoes of silk come into Vancouver harbor by way of the Empress of Russia, that wonderful ocean greyhound which brought on its last trip from the Orient the Chinese Silk Mission, including three expert silk reelers, who will demonstrate their abilities at the Exposition.

One May Be Suited or Not

YOUR choice for spring may fall upon a suit—or upon a one piece frock or a coat dress that lures you away from your old allegiance to skirt and coat. Each is as smart as the other for street wear, as ingeniously designed and as well tailored. It is almost necessary to issue a questionaire in order to know which is which, for in general outlines they are much alike. There are almost no severely plain models and the demand for decoration has brought out a great deal that is novel and handsome.

In the picture above, both a suit and a coat dress are reproduced, the suit at the left depending on its novel decoration more than anything else to distinguish it. It is made of a dark blue twill and has a plain skirt tulled into a plain band about the bottom. This band is studded with jet cabochons. The straight coat is a little drawn in at the waist line by a cord in the shade at the bottom by a band corresponding with that on the skirt. Flaring sleeves and standing collar are notes in the spring modes which this coat repeats and they are beautifully embellished with cabochons which finish their good work by dotting the front with bright points.

Spring Coats Are Sumptuous

COATS are nothing if not graceful and dignified this spring. There is something about them that suggests leisure or at least deliberation. They appear to be designed not for hurrying mortals but for those who have time to give heed to their dress—not to speak of hanging on to them. It is quite the style to appear to hold the wrap about the shoulders and it must be confessed that this casual adjustment of the garment to the figure has "chic" of its own. The fifth model at the left of the two pictured is showing us one way of following the mode.

Both the coats pictured are representatives of favored styles that are as much like mantles as coats. Even the models that have set in sleeves are ample and flaring, managing to follow—at a little distance—something of the vague and changing lines approved by fashion while distinctly favors wraps that may be described as sumptuous. Each of these coats is distinctly new in some style points. The model at the left is made of one of the heavier of spring pile fabrics and has its usual collar stripped with bands of black which may be of patent leather or of ribbon. Beige-colored coats with finishing and embellishments of patent leather are among the best of the season's offerings.

The coat at the right might be more correctly described as a mantle, draped into wide sleeves at the sides. It is a very clever piece of designing with its body cut into a length of the material which becomes a yoke, collar and scarf all in one. The scarf ends are finished with handsome tassels.

Accurate Balances.

The British mint contains some wonderfully accurate and sensitive balances. In one of the rooms there are two large pair of scales kept in glass cases, suspended on pulleys. The pair used for weighing out silver will record the weight of a postage stamp, but even more sensitive is the balance one used for gold. It will show the difference in weight between two absolutely identical pieces of paper one of which contains a signature and the other does not.

Primitive Lamps.

The first lamps, known as "Betty" lamps, introduced in America, when the first Pilgrims landed, resembled somewhat the old Greek models. Some were forged from iron, and others were cast in brass. They were flat on top and bottom, and the wick support was a crude bar, fastened by the lower end to the inside bottom of the lamp. A handle at the back attached by links to a pointed hook, held the lamp suspended from a high backed chair or crevice in the stone fireplace.

FOUR DOCTORS GAVE HER UP

Through a Neighbor's Advice This Woman Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Kenosha, Wis.—"I suffered with a female trouble and at last was in bed for six weeks with what the doctors called inflammation of the bowels. Four of them said I could not live. A neighbor told me to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it helped me from the start. When the doctor came I told him what I had taken and he said, 'Throw my medicine away and keep on with the Pinkham medicine.' I did and it cured me. If more women would take your medicine they would not suffer so. I have recommended the Vegetable Compound to lots of people and they have been satisfied."—Mrs. MARY KRAPSTOCK, 2704 Wisconsin St., Kenosha, Wisconsin.

When a woman is beset with such symptoms as irregularities, inflammation, ulceration, a displacement, backache, headaches, bearing-down pains, nervousness or the "blues" she should treat the cause of such conditions by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the standard remedy for woman's ills.

Learning an Anthem

A choir leader says: "In beginning the study of a new anthem I find it a good plan to go right through the whole piece at the first attempt to get the general outline and the spirit of it. At the first reading I pass by all mistakes such as false notes, wrong time, bad phrasing etc. In some weeks it pays to run through the whole piece this way two or three times so that the piece may be grasped sufficiently to enable the singers to study the details with an intelligent relation to the whole.

CLEANING UP INSECT PESTS

Many of Hibernating Species May Be Destroyed In Winter By Cleaning Up Obscure Corners.

Much can be done now to reduce the possibility of insect plagues next summer if a little effort is directed toward the destruction of insect shelter areas. Around the grounds and gardens, under hedges, beside ditches, and in fence corners are bunches of insect sheltering weeds or grass. By the time cold weather approaches many kinds of insects in the adult or immature stages have taken full advantage of these nooks and hidden away there for the winter. The bureau of entomology, United States Department of Agriculture, says that if these spots are cleaned up and the refuse cut and burned, many of these hibernating insects will be destroyed and the damage from such pests during the coming season will be materially lessened.

PROVIDE BATH FOR POULTRY

Chickens Cleanse Themselves by Wallowing in Soil and Dust Box Should Be Accessible.

Chickens never wash as many other birds do, but cleanse themselves by wallowing in soil. Where board or cement floors are used in the chicken house, some means for dusting should be provided during the winter months, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. For a flock of 50 to 60 fowls a dust box 3 by 7 feet or 4 by 4 feet will generally be found large enough and should be placed where it can be reached by sunlight during as much of the day as possible.

Fine, light dry dust is the best kind with which to fill the box, but sandy loam is good. Road dust is recommended by many, but it is apt to be filthy. Coal or wood ashes may be mixed with the soil if desired.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By "Skinney"

Charley Anderson, Curwensville's "old buck hunter," who claims to have slain more deer than any other hunter of his years in Pennsylvania, writes the "Colyum" his views of the present game laws and asks that we give our readers a crack at his story. The "old buck hunter" says "I think the present "buck and horn" law is alright and good enough for several reasons. In the first place deer are getting more plentiful every year Secondly, what will the farmers do if we greatly increase the number. They are complaining now in many sections of the deer eating up their grain crops Further, I think you will find that the chief complaint regarding the killing of "spike" bucks is made by parties that never hunted a day and don't contribute a cent to game propagation by taking out a license. The game laws should be a matter for the hunters themselves, and the fellow who don't pay shouldn't have a word to say"

This old hunter thinks the law on noxious animals should be changed. He thinks a bounty should be placed on the skunk because, he says, the skunk is one of the most desructive animals on the pheasant and her young, as the pheasant builds her nest upon the ground and the skunk comes wabbling along and eats every egg in the nest, and often captures young birds, too. Skunks, Charley says, also devour young rabbits in their nests.

Charley's hand is also raised against the coon which he thinks ought not to be protected at all. He says "the coon fishes the streams in low water all night long and what's the use of stocking streams if Mr Coon is allowed to fish them out. The coon also preys upon pheasants nests."

The "old buck hunter" winds up his letter with a slam at the water snake, which he says is also a ruthless destroyer of trout and needs a St. Patrick to drive him out of the waters of Pennsylvania's trout streams.

Suppose we will have to put up with the blowing of that curfew whistle, even if nobody pays any attention to it, if only for the sake of the remainder to those middle aged Clearfielders who were making life miserable for High Constable Billy Dorvitt in the early 80's when the first curfew was declared and enacted in Clearfield.

"Them were some times," if our memory serves us right.

Dr. Evan O'Neil Kane, of Kane, aged 60, and chief surgeon at the Kane Summit Hospital, has real nerve. He has been suffering from chronic appendicitis and finally decided to end the annoyance with his own little hatchet, or whatever kind of hardware or cutlery a surgeon uses when he decides to cut a fellow up, and getting a nurse to prop him up on the operating table so that he might see, he marked out the proper place on his flitch, whacked away and when the appendix popped out the aperture made, he snipped it off, fixed up the wound, was hustled back into bed and when interviewed a few hours later said he felt fit as a fiddle, if he had amputated his G string. The old boy sure is there alright.

Talk about love's labor lost. We saw one of the Dimeling Hotel porters polishing up the brass on the old bar room doors yesterday afternoon. The operation attracted the attention of the court house corner loafers and when some wag announced that the bar would reopen at 3 o'clock a lineup quickly formed and inside of ten minutes 20 long-thirsty gents lined the curb waiting for the glad tidings. One fellow finally inquired of the polisher the reason for his activity and turned sadly away when the lad answered that he was just dolling the entrance up for old time's sake Many longing glances were cast at the brightly polished door during the afternoon, but alas there was "nowt a-doin."

How time does wheel along into the years. Over at the boxing bout in DuBois Tuesday evening among the celebrities introduced to the crowd of fight fans were Jakey Levison, of DuBois, and Ralph Jordan of Clearfield Both are among the leading business men of their respective towns nowadays, but announcer J. J. Mack introduced these old timers as principals in a 10 round battle of their at Jamestown almost 20 years ago. Both boys could but up some scrap for about one minute even yet.

THERE ARE a few men in America whose devotion and loyalty to their duties is greater than financial reward

Ransom A Moore, Agronomist at the Wisconsin Agricultural College, has devoted a lifetime to the improvement of Wisconsin seeds and is probably the foremost breeder of field seeds in the world He has the rare faculty of passing his enthusiasm and conviction along to his students and he has organized his alumni into the Wisconsin Agricultural Experiment Association each man being devoted to the propagation of Wisconsin pedigreed seeds

Prof Moore's example has been followed by several of the Northwestern states says Mr Frank Blacker Vice Pres American Steel and Wire Co [illegible] seed breeding associations are now [illegible] in Minnesota North Dakota South Dakota [illegible] and Kansas [illegible] some other states

Farmers generally however do not [illegible] what this work means [illegible] Northwest [illegible] Marquis [illegible] about [illegible] on the average [illegible] acre, but the pedigreed Marquis propagated by Prof Moore and his boys averages 24 bushels per acre These grains are grown and offered for sale by the members of the Association and, insofar as I know, Wisconsin offers the only car lot source of pure bred grains, faithful to type and variety'

Wisconsin has probably made a greater reputation on its pedigreed barleys than any other grain and Prof Moore says that his pedigreed seed grains will maintain their characteristics wherever planted The Wisconsin corns have been bred with a view to early maturity and large yield and this seed is being shipped to all parts of the earth, Europe South Africa South America and Australia It also is being shipped to Texas and the Southwest holding its character and doing better than other grains

Wisconsin pedigreed oats are prized not only for their heavy yielding qualities but for a very stiff straw which enables them to stand lodging

The annual exhibition at LaCrosse, of Wisconsin pedigreed grains has received worldwide notice The Association at Madison will accept orders from farm bureaus individuals and seedsmen and the seed [illegible] be relied upon

WOODLOT WORTHY OF PROPER CARE

HARVEST SEASON IN WINTER

Two Types That Require Different Methods of Handling—Cutting Assists Greatly in Thinning and Cultivation.

Wheat, corn and potatoes require planting, care and cultivation The crop of wood that grows on the farm woodlot requires much less care than these others and in the majority of cases it is already growing on the farm when the farmer takes the land Doubtless this fact makes it difficult for the farmer to see this crop in the same light in which he regards the others Any other farm crop must be cared for or it will fail, and the stand of wood on the woodlot is no exception, though the progress of deterioration is not so rapid and may extend over a long period of years

A properly cared for woodlot will furnish the farmer a cash crop at regular intervals and will always afford a supply of timber and fuel for home use The harvest season for the woodlot comes in the fall and in the winter, and the gathering of the harvest assists also in the thinning and cultivation of the crop

Require Different Methods.

In general, there are two types of woodlots, says the United States Department of Agriculture, and each of them requires a different method of handling The first type is characterized by the presence of old trees which dominate the stand The second type is made up of a nearly even-aged stand of second growth

In the first type the old trees may almost exclude the younger growth, or they may exist as a few scattered individuals throughout the stand Such material is very likely to be losing value The way to check the loss is to cut the old trees which have attained a mature growth and make room for a new stand of seedlings. A mature tree should be cut for the same reason that one cuts a crop of wheat when it is thoroughly ripened No dead or diseased timber should be allowed to stand

A woodlot composed entirely of mature trees should not be cleared at one cutting The work should be carried on in stages with sufficient interval between the cuttings to allow a new crop to come up If this method is followed carefully, the farmer will always have a crop of wood ready for harvest on his woodlot When the mature timber is removed in two or three cuttings the first cutting should be so managed as to open up the crown cover somewhat, so that the leaves on the forest floor may decompose more rapidly and the germination of the seed be made more certain The remaining trees become more windfirm and, as a result of their crowns receiving more sunlight, they produce more seed When the forest floor is in good condition the second cutting in a mature woodlot can be made during the winter following a heavy seed year Neither the first nor the second cutting should be so severe as to allow an abundance of sunshine to reach the forest floor since sunshine stimulates the growth of weeds and other trash.

Thinning the Stand

In the second type of woodlot, where the farmer has an even aged stand of second growth timber, he may begin to harvest his crop by selecting first the undesirable species Often in such stands, such trees as ironwood threaten to overtop crowd out or damage the more valuable species like white ash or tulip poplar Sprouts sometimes arise too thickly from the stump of trees recently cut, or the reproduction of a good species is too dense In any of these cases some of the trees should be removed This process is nothing more than the weeding out of the poorer individuals where they interfere with the better ones In somewhat the same manner a thinning cutting is used when in from 15 to 20 years the young stands reach a dense condition. The principle is exactly the same as that applied by the truck gardener who thins out his plants to secure the best development of a portion, rather than a poor development of the whole.

IN PLEA FOR NEGLECTED MEN

Three Thousand Veterans From Legion Ranks Are Explaining Situation to American People.

Three thousand volunteer speakers from the ranks of the American Legion in every state are now carrying by word-of mouth to the American people the Legion's story of the "suffering, shameful neglect and injustice" in the government's administration of the nation's debt to the disabled, which was contained in the formal memorial which the Legion has presented to President Wilson, President elect Harding, and to all members of congress Probably never before in the history of the country has such an army of orators been mobilized to speak at the same time upon a single text

John Thomas Taylor.

The Legion aims to present to the people of the United States the facts regarding the disabled in the same language as they were presented to the officials of the government. The Legion's memorial was carried to the President at the White House by John Thomas Taylor, vice chairman of the Legion National Legislative committee National Commander F. W. Galbraith, Jr, gave it to Senator Harding at Marion, where he had a long and important conference on the disabled situation with the next President.

The Legion denounces the present method of caring for the disabled as a "failure' which only can be remedied by the entire reconstruction of the federal machinery dealing with the problem

The functions of the three agencies, which deal with the problems of the disabled, the bureau of war risk insurance, the federal board for vocational education, and the United States public health service, "must be co ordinated, their machinery decentralized and all three placed under common control," the memorial states.

As an equally essential remedy for existing conditions, the memorial urges the immediate appropriation for the use of the unified organization of a sum ample to build or rent a sufficient number of hospitals to take care of the 16,900 ex service men who are unable to receive treatment at present because of lack of beds and shelter.

The "failure' of the government to afford justice to the sick and wounded veterans is attributed by the Legion to 'an astonishing state of divided responsibility and wasted effort among the government agencies with which the problem rests'

The break in the chain of responsibility occurs, according to the memorial, as a result of the fact that the war risk bureau is under and responsible to an assistant secretary of the treasury, an officer of the executive branch of the government, while the federal board for vocational education is responsible only to congress, and is under none of the executive departments of the government.

F. W. Galbraith, Jr.

The memorial asserts that the United States has been more liberal than any other nation in its provisions for the disabled soldiers, but that it has failed in large measure to make these provisions available in spite of the benefit of the experience of other nations in the recent war and the experience of this nation in previous wars '

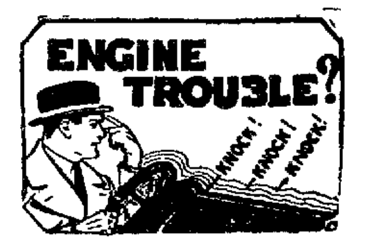

'In the re habilitation of a disabled man there are three needs—medical treatment, vocational training and financial support,' the memorial states "The government has recognized the three needs, but overlooks the fact that they are the simultaneous needs of one man, not of three different men or of one man at three different times It makes three problems out of what really is one problem

"Continuing this faulty conception it has given the problem over to three agencies All, by force of circumstances, are exercising functions they were not intended to exercise This presents an amazing spectacle of administrative chaos duplication, wasted energy and conflict, which is the key to the present condition

"The result is the suffering of the disabled veterans Thousands are waiting and have waited for months for compensation for their injuries Thousands have waited for months for an opportunity to re establish themselves as self sustaining members of society by vocational training Thousands are in need of hospitalization and the government has no hospital facilities available for them Of
